STANDING UP FOR OUR RIGHTS

NATIONAL FRONT

St George's Day Parade

IT WAS a perfect English Spring day on the 27th of April as National Front members gathered at a pleasant pub on the outskirts of Birmingham. At 2.00pm our Annual St George's Day Parade began to form up behind Pauline Read, the NF candidate in the local council election for Sheldon Ward.

As the procession set off we quickly came to the first of several shopping areas where we received good wishes and "thumbs-up" signs from many local people. The well-ordered, disciplined and attractive parade, which included a large flag party and a huge NF banner, was a splendid advert for the National Front with every participant a great credit to the Party.

As the parade approached the school where the meeting was to take place a ragged and disorderly Labour Party demonstration attempted to block the road, however a well-planned and executed Police operation resulted in the demonstrators, including Labour councillors, being unceremoniously bundled out of the way, leaving piles of broken placards strewn across the road.

Inside the school an enjoyable meeting was barely interrupted by the inevitable bomb threat which caused some mild amusement. The meeting was addressed by Pauline Read, Dean Thomas of the NF Executive Council and Ian Anderson, Chairman of the National Front. The meeting was ably chaired by National Activities Organiser, John Hill and a collection raised £150.

The day was a great success all round and yet again demonstrated the maturity of the National Front and the calibre of our members.

• ON THE MARCH: The National Front make their way through Sheldon Ward, Birmingham.

• FORMING UP: Members of the Flag Party take their places.

• FINE CANDIDATE: Pauline Read with some of her supporters.

• ELECTION MEETING: A packed hall listens as John Hill introduces the speakers.

Census Shock for Sussex Town

ONE IN eight inhabitants of the West Sussex town of Crawley is Asian according to the findings of a council survey which has been leaked to 'The FLAG'.

Racial tension has been growing in the town over the conversion of a number of residential homes into Mosques. The Council argues that planning permission has been granted because the local authority "... must address itself to the needs of the Asian Community which at presents makes up 12% of the population".

Greed Before Hedgerows

THE GOVERNMENT is to scrap measures which would have given statutory protection to hedgerows, more than 100,000 miles of which have been destroyed since 1945.

Fears over the sums of money in compensation and maintenance that farmers might claim have led to the Government abandoning the undertaking in last year's Environment White Paper to introduce measures to protect hedges, some of which date back to Saxon times.

END OF THE SCARBOROUGH

by Michael Hebden

THE SCARBOROUGH PUBLIC House, besieged and wrecked during the Salman Rushdie riots in Dewsbury two years ago, has been bought by Asians and is to be turned into an Indian restaurant.

Tetley's Brewery, who completely refurbished the pub after the riots, say that it is being sold because it is no longer 'economically viable'. The landlord, Mr Ron Newton, who moved in 18 months ago after the premises had been refitted, claims he has lost £26,000 during that time. he said he has done his best to attract trade, but that people have been frightened to come in, and now he is being pressurized by Tetley's to move out.

During the riots terrified customers were forced to seek shelter in upstairs rooms whilst mobs rampaged through the ground floor, wrecking and looting. Cars in the nearby car park were smashed and vandalised with some of the owners still waiting for compensation.

The Scarborough, a traditional pub, is in the heart of Savile Town, a solidly working and lower middle-class district until immigrants started moving in about 20 years ago. Across the road from the pub is the Savile Cricket Ground which was at one time an important Yorkshire county match venue, vying with Headingley or Bradford Park Avenue. Older Yorkshiremen still happily recall the exploits of the cricketing greats who played there in the good old days.

Later it became headquarters of Dewsbury Cricket Club and frequently hosted local cricket club finals. In recent years, however, it has been repeatedly vandalised, with broken glass strewn on the playing area and the once splendid pavilion falling into disrepair. Eventually the local club moved out in despair and the ground today is only used by Asians.

Savile Town itself is almost 100% occupied by immigrant families and has the biggest Mosque in Europe, which includes a religious training centre. Students come from all parts of the world with the district becoming one of Britain's Muslim focal points. Inevitably, as the few remaining Whites move out, they are replaced by Asians.

The Scarborough's landlord claims he had approached one of his neighbours to try to buy the pub from Tetley's, on the understanding that he would stay on as landlord.

"Now that's all changed" said Mr Newton, and the neighbour's son confirmed that the pub was to become an Indian Restaurant. The landlord went on "My regulars are upset, because this is a traditional pub, but people don't want to come in because of the riots".

Savile Town and the nearby Ravensthorpe are now parts of Dewsbury dominated by immigrants, who are also spreading into other districts. The neighbouring town of Batley has similar areas.

"All this has happened in the last 20 years," lamented an elderly shopper in Dewsbury's smart new town centre. "In another twenty years there'll be none of us left".

Tories Mugged

FOUR MEMBERS of a Tory fact-finding mission to South Africa were mugged by a gang of ten Black youths as they visited a black area of Johannesburg.

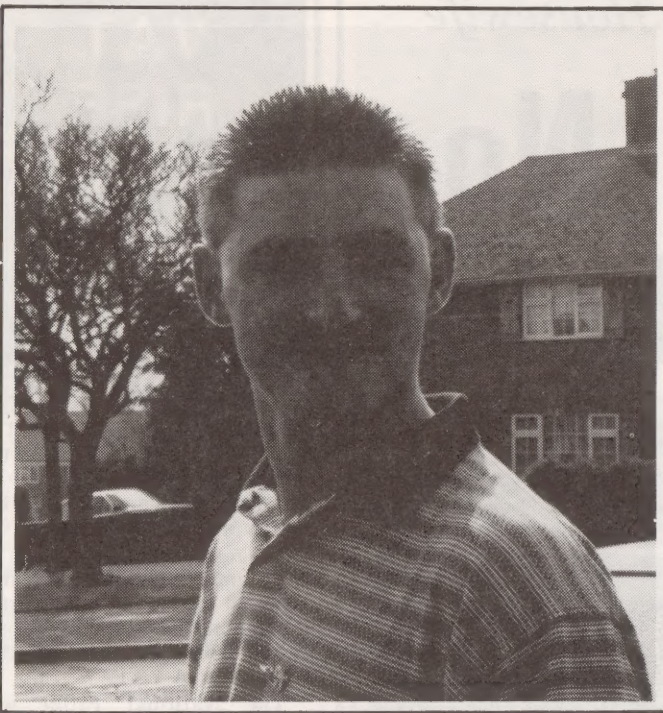

As they approached a group of blacks to question them on changes in the Apartheid system over recent years they were pounced upon, threatened with six-inch blades and had their wallets stolen.

Dr Mark Mayall, prospective parliamentary candidate for Oxford East said the incident "... was a good demonstration of the serious problems South Africa is facing".

Death From a Foreign Import

A YOUNG man drowned at Weston-Super-Mare after using a faulty Electra Sport Boat made in Taiwan.

3,000 of these lethal imports have swamped Britain to be used as an inducement to sell timeshare. A trading standards officer described the boats as "... a motorised Lilo with a food mixer at the back".

■ TERRY BLACKHAM: A new face at NF Head Office.

DAYTIME PAPER sales, leaflet blitzes, trips to help branches start up their own paper sales, the setting up of new branches - these tasks are just part of the work schedule of Terry Blackham who has just been taken on to the staff of the National Front.

As well as being one of the most active National Front members, he is also the organiser of the highly successful Beckenham Branch, and although he has only been on the staff for the past few weeks we have already started to see a difference with three areas in London being targeted where it is believed the National Front can rapidly establish branches.

Terry is organising daytime activity teams which are concentrating on these areas, where we have members but no established branch. Just take a look at the Letters Page to see that such teams are already having an effect. If this strategy is successful then it will be extended to other parts of the country with Terry spending time in different areas.

With the increasing number of membership enquiries, Terry is also helping out with basic administration work and is helping the National Front provide the best possible service to our branches. Terry Blackham's role is also key to our projected purchase of a Head Office building in the near future.

HOW YOU CAN HELP

1. MONEY NEEDED: Taking Terry Blackham on to our staff has increased our expenditure dramatically. Although Terry will help build the NF and his work will more than pay for itself within a few months, we need help to get over the initial period. If you can help please send a donation to: The Secretary, P.O.Box 230, Worthing, Sussex BN14 8EG.

2. VOLUNTEERS: We need people who can help out during the day. If you can get a day or two off work or if you are unemployed, please give us a phone call on 081-471 6872 and we will give you details of what is involved.

DIRECT CALL

National Front branches in some parts of the country now have their own postal address. You can contact your branch immediately for details of membership, meetings and activities. Save time and support your local unit by contacting them direct.

COVENTRY: DUDLEY: BIRMINGHAM: SOUTHEND: LEWISHAM NATIONAL FRONT MAKE THEIR PRESENCE FELT AGAIN

More Effort Needed in Local Polls

THE MAY Council elections were a bit of a non-event as far as the National Front was concerned. Once again branches failed to get their act together and either missed the nomination deadline or declined to stand.

The West Midlands was the exception with Birmingham contesting 3 seats, Coventry and Dudley one apiece.

In Birmingham congratulations must go to Pauline Read who got within 11 votes of beating the Greens. The NF vote would have been considerably higher had there not been tactical voting to get rid of the sitting Tory Councillor. Pauline Read had been a National Front supporter for many years before actually joining the Party during the Euro-Election of 1989. She's the ideal sort of candidate for the National Front one which makes a complete nonsense of the image that media tries to give us.

Frank Bates polled well for a first attempt in Cheylesmore Ward in Coventry and in Dudley Andrew Nolan received a respectable 3% of the vote.

• LEWISHAM: 14 years after the famous NF march the Front are back!

• SOUTHEND: Flying visits to such Essex towns is a new NF strategy.

THE SIGNING of Terry Blackham on to the National Front's full time staff has certainly set the Party alight in the London area. Weekday daytime activities were seldom seen in the capital but now Terry and his small group of helpers are changing all that and are making the most of the interest shown by holding papersales and leaflet sessions capturing fascinated commuters on their way in and out of London.

Papersales in Lewisham, something unheard of in the recent history of the National Front are now becoming a regular activity as well as sales in West and East London, and at the big British Rail stations of Charing Cross, Euston and Victoria. Sometimes Terry makes a flying visit to some of London's dormitory towns, like Southend, where holidaymakers and residents alike have expressed their delight in seeing the NF on the streets again in their area.

But Terry will be the first to admit that he couldn't do all this alone and it is because he is backed up by a steadily growing group of volunteer workers that these activities are proving such a success. Helpers like Darren Copeland who, although unemployed, finds the money to travel to London to help the NF. Each month he travels up from Worthing to spend two days at the East London office helping where he can. It might be folding papers, answering the telephone, leafletting or paperselling as it was on Tuesday 21st May at a new pitch by Charing Cross.

The steady increase in activities in London is beginning to reap rewards with more inquiries being received from parts of the capital than for some time.

• HELPING HAND: Darren Copeland, seen here assisting NF Chairman Ian Anderson at a rally, travels up regularly from Worthing to work at H.Q.

Asians Vote Labour

MORE THAN 70% of those Asians who voted in the May council elections voted Labour according to a survey published in the Asian newspaper 'The Daily Jang'. 19% voted Tory, 10% Liberal and 1% others.

No Badge For This

THE FIRST ethnic Communities Development Officer has been appointed by the Scout Movement.

The appointed person is Miss Cathy Ross, a West Indian, and she has the task of promoting membership within the ethnic minorities in order to shake off the movement's white, middle-class Christian image.

Is nothing beyond the perversion of these multi-racial ego-trippers?

Marriage of Convenience

AT A private session of Manchester City Council's Equal Opportunities Committee an award of £500 has been made to help a convicted robber, Henry Agilo fight against deportation as an illegal immigrant.

Agilo has recently got married and his wife is expecting a baby in August. Isn't that so very convenient?

The National Front would put Agilo on the first plane back to his country of ethnic origin and give the £500 towards helping Britain's O.A.P.s

Starers Face Prison

RACE RELATIONS chiefs in Britain have declared war on Britain's village population alleging that their attitude is racist!

Apparently White villagers have been staring at Blacks when they pass though and this has been making ethnic minorities uncomfortable and given the impression that they are not wanted.

Now the Race Board wants action to stop villagers staring at Blacks making staring an "incitement to racial hatred" crime. No doubt it won't be long before country yokels will be carted off by the van load to serve their sentences for staring!

No Corner of Europe Left Untouched

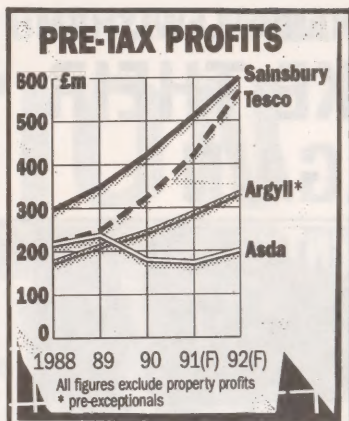

THERE ARE few parts of Europe that have not suffered from the blight of immigration and all the problems that go with it.

The latest casualty has been Belgium where on May 21st for the fourth night running petrol bombs were thrown at the Police as immigrants rioted in Brussels.

The riots involved many different immigrants but in the main they were Moroccan youths. A Government official, Charles Picque, said unless steps were taken the country could face grave consequences. "We are living on a powder keg" he said.

Muslim Parliament

MUSLIMS IN Britain now have their own Governing body a Muslim Parliament based at 6, Endsleigh Street, London WC1H 0DS. The parliament will define, promote and defend Muslim interests in Britain!

THE GROWING concentration of food sales in the hands of fewer and fewer giant superstores is not only depriving shoppers of choice and driving traditional British family greengrocers out of business. It is also sucking in unnecessary food imports and damaging the balance of trade.

Five years ago, the Big Four chain foodstores - Sainsbury, Tesco, Argill (which owns Safeway and Presto) and Asda - accounted for less than 5% of all food sold in Britain. Now they sell almost two-thirds. Using their near-monopoly to squeeze the highest food retail profit margins in the world out of the British shopper so their bosses can wax fat on our money. Tesco boss Sir Ian MacLaurin rakes in a cool £1.48 million a year, nearly £28,500 a week - the second-highest-paid director in Britain. Sainsbury's expects profits growth of over 20% this year to over £500 million.

The monopoly looks set to tighten. The Big Four may well soon become the Big Two. While Tesco and Sainsbury are roaring ahead, spending £750 million a year on new "superstores", Argill and Asda are failing to keep up. Asda in particular is in trouble. £900 million in debt after spending £700 million on buying 60 Gateway stores, with profit forecasts falling and City sharks licking their lips hungrily.

Two giant combines using their total domination of the market to set whatever prices they can squeeze out of the hapless housewife whilst they ruthlessly undercut and drive out of business the corner grocers who used to offer real quality and choice is the reality of the Tories' "market economy". The reality behind the propaganda myth of "consumer choice" and "market forces improving quality". A reality of corrupt monopolistic extortion.

Cartels Combining to Exploit the Housewife

SHOPPING: No Freedom of Choice

• ON THE WAY OUT: Supermarkets are being squeezed. In the end they will be owned by either Tesco or Sainsbury.

It's a reality which damages the nation as a whole as well as the housewife as an individual. Because the monopolies can make a faster buck by importing food we can perfectly well produce ourselves. Last year the food industry chalked up a £5.9 billion deficit, with exports of £3.2 billion overshadowed by imports of £9.1 billion. The biggest deficits were £2.7 billion in fruit and vegetables and 1.2 billion in meat. Safeway themselves admitted that £136 million of the £241 million worth of food the company imported in 1989 could perfectly well have been bought in Britain.

So the Tories' "free market economy" is an unfree supermarket economy in which shoppers pay over the odds to vast monopolistic combines who control the market and set the prices for maximum profit whilst squeezing real choice and competition out of the game and flooding the country with unnecessary imports. But then all Labour has to offer is the queues and empty shelves of State Socialism.

Only British Nationalism offers a better way. A return to the quality, caring and choice provided by a market made up of lots of small family businesses and co-operatives, with the giant monopolies of Stock Market plutocracy and the single Government monopoly of Socialist bureaucracy alike kept at bay. Whilst import controls ensure that best-quality British food, not dumped foreign rubbish, adorns the shelves. Instead of cartels combining to exploit the housewife, businesses competing to serve her.

Killed by Kindness

A SENIOR Tory MP for once hit the nail on the head when he pointed out that the real problem in Bangladesh wasn't the death rate in the recent cyclone but the out-of-control birth rate there.

Speaking at the Scottish Tories' Conference in Perth, Sir Nicholas Fairbairn, former Scottish Attorney-General, also denounced the "bleeding heart" attitude of the media to African famines.

Sir Nicholas told the conference "It is not death which is the problem - which the media would have you believe - but birth. I hope it will not sound unhelpful if I remind you that the population of Bangladesh, reduced by 120,000 ten days ago, has already overtaken that number".

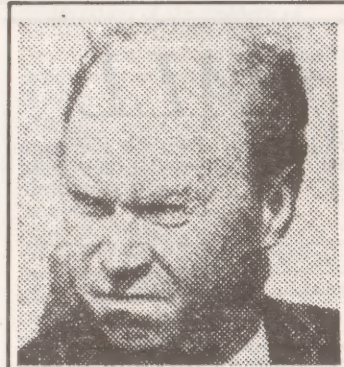

The MP for Perth and Kinross went on: "I hope it will not sound unsympathetic if I remind you that the population of Ethiopia and Somalia - constantly bleeding the hearts of the media - is on a curve of increase. When the earthquake happened in Mexico City, the population was replaced within 24 hours. The population of China increases by more than the entire population of Scotland every ten days".

Sir Nicholas concluded "It is no good talking about environmental problems, green problems, national emergencies, people washed away in floods, if the rate of population increase is not stopped. That, I believe, is the world's greatest problem".

He might have added that it is basically a Third World problem. The population of nearly all First World countries, like our own, is static or falling.

But he would probably have been wasting his breath. For while Sir Nicholas was directing his icy blast of realism and common sense at Tories in Scotland, down in London Tory Overseas Development Minister Lynda Chalker was generating a more typical Tory output, hot air. "We must do everything we can to help these people" she twittered, before throwing more millions of the British people's money to bankroll Bangladeshis breeding. Money utterly wasted. It just makes countries like Bangladesh even more overcrowded, so that even more die in the next disaster. Killed by kindness.

• NICHOLAS FAIRBAIRN: Honest

• WORLD'S GREATEST PROBLEM: It is no good talking about environmental problems while the Third World birthrate is exploding.

VAT RISE HITS THE POOR!

WHEN JOHN Major announced the £140 reduction in the Poll Tax which was to be paid for by the raising of VAT to 17.5%, he claimed that this would help the poorer members of society.

He argued that items such as food and clothing are zero-rated while all the luxury items attract the full rate, consequently poorer people would not be so affected by the rise in VAT.

The National Front was suspicious of this argument because over the years VAT has been added on to more and more of those few simple pleasures many ordinary people enjoy. Obviously all alcohol and cigarettes attract VAT. A few years ago VAT was added to takeaway meals which form a significant part of the diet of many busy working people. Basic clothes attract VAT as do all items needed for do-it-yourself home maintenance.

Now our suspicions have been confirmed. In the officially produced "Economic Trends" report it is revealed that the poorest 20% of households spend 10.3% of their disposable income on VAT; the richest 20% spend just 6.6% on VAT.

Consequently the £140 reduction in Poll Tax which everybody receives is being paid for by the poor while the rich get the benefit. John Major, far from being a Robin Hood figure resembles more and more a man like the Sheriff of Nottingham - let's just hope he comes to the same end!!

• JOHN MAJOR: A robbin' hood?

RETURN OF THE KILLER FOAM!

FURNITURE MADE with killer foam is set to flood back into Britain thanks to more Common Market madness.

EEC bosses are preparing a directive that over-rides British safety rules and will allow the foam to be imported into Common Market countries from the end of next year.

Two years ago Britain became the only EEC nation to outlaw the foam, which causes on average 300 deaths a year and 7,500 injuries - mainly from breathing in lethal polyurethane fumes. But now Britons are to be put at risk again. David Freeland, National Secretary of the British Furniture Manufacturers Federation said "This will be a disaster for consumers".

Finding out how Pansies grow in SPACE!

BRITAIN'S FIRST astronaut, Helen Sharman, deserves unstinted praise for her bravery and commitment as she carried the banner of our nationhood beyond Earth's air. It is not her fault she had to fly in a foreign spacecraft, her proud venture reduced to hitch-hiking on a Soviet rocket.

Nor is it her fault that she makes Britain, thirty years after Gagarin took the Race's first great step towards the stars, a pathetic twenty-third in the Space race.

Even Outer Mongolia and Mexico have beaten us into orbit. To say nothing of Afghanistan and Syria. All likewise hitching a lift from the Russians or the Americans. But at least they paid their way. It is no thanks to the British Government that Helen Sharman flew at all. Her flight was paid for by the Moscow's Peoples' Bank, who plan to finance it, by flogging her Soyuz capsule to the London Science Museum for £5 million. Where it will sit as a monument to our shame and degradation.

• HITCHING A RIDE: Helen Sharman

Shame and degradation manifest in the pathetic virtual passenger status Miss Sharman - who is clearly capable of much more - played in the mission.

The scientific experiments she got to perform were given her to do by the Russians. Most proposed British experiments wilted in the face of evident Whitehall indifference. The best they could come up with was observing how pansies grow in conditions of weightlessness, a topic of some personal interest in certain senior Civil Service circles no doubt!

Rodney Buckland, director of the Space School, who devised what experiments Britain did provide, was bitter about official apathy. "It's an absolute disaster", he said on the day of the launch. "The Juno launch has only gone ahead because of Soviet space aid to a Third World space country - Britain".

Kick in the Teeth

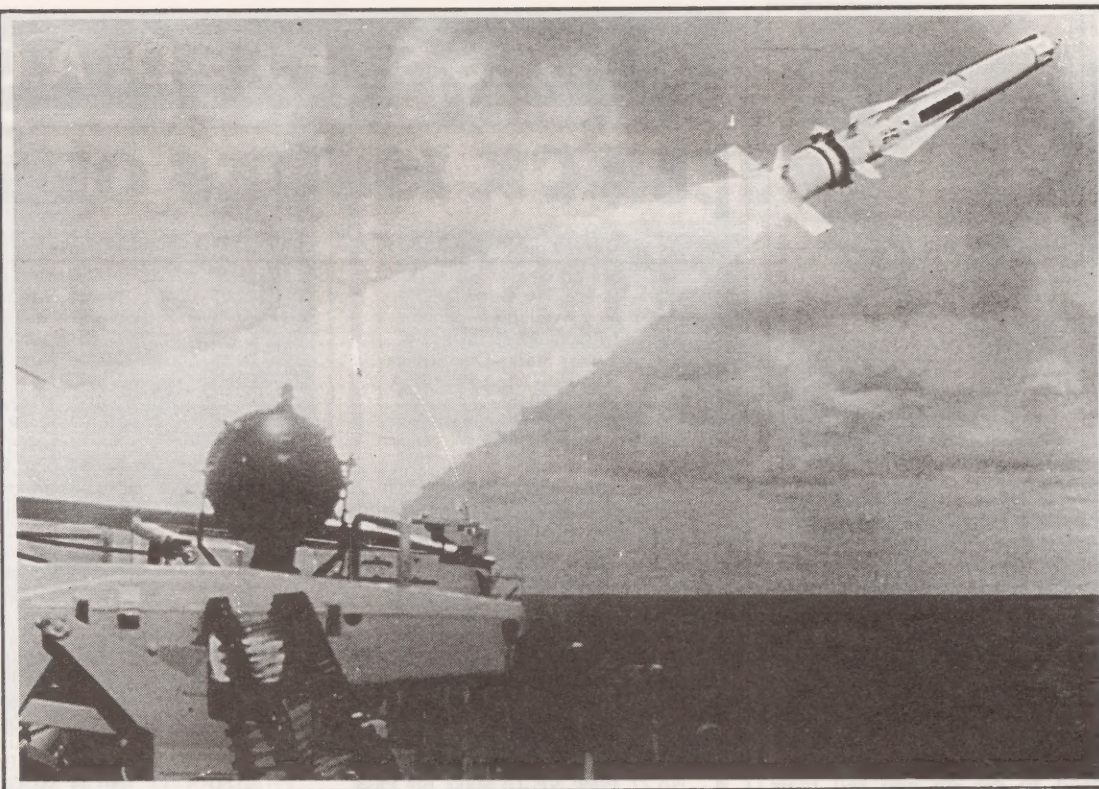

BRITAIN'S BIGGEST shipping line P & O could soon be sailing under a foreign flag.

The Red Ensign of the British merchant marine may be replaced on such vessels as the cruise liner Canberra, which acted as a troop ship during the Falklands War.

P & O Chairman Lord Sterling threatened the action at a shareholders meeting unless tax concessions were given to British shippers.

A spokesman for Numast, the Union representing ships officers, said the decision to re-flag could cost hundreds of British jobs and threaten safety standards. "It is a kick in the teeth to the nation".

A National Front Government would insist that all British ships sail under the Red Ensign, the so-called Flags of Convenience would be outlawed in British waters.

FROM LATER THIS year, for at least four years, Britain's skies will lie defenceless. Bereft of a ground-based air-defence system, when the last squadron of RAF Bloodhound missiles is stood down. This appalling hole in our national defence was reavealed by senior Ministry of Defence officials giving evidence before the House of Commons Defence Committee on April 24th.

The officials disclosed that successive Labour and Tory governments had done nothing to equip our armed forces with a new ground-to-air missile since the British Bloodhound II was introduced in 1964, nearly thirty years ago. Able to blast an attacking aircraft out of the sky at heights of up to 75,000 feet and ranges of up to 124 miles, Bloodhound was a formidable weapon in its day. But now it is obsolete. Modern bombers and missiles like Scuds can easily evade it.

The need for a new missile was graphically revealed in the Gulf War, when the American Patriot showed what it could do. But for an entire generation, while the Americans were developing the Patriot, Britain was doing nothing. As Air Commodore John Day, Director of Air Force Plans and Programmes, told the MP's, the RAF was "unhappy about the situation". All they could do, as senior Civil Servant David Gould, Head of Resources and Programmes (Air) put it, was try to keep the old Bloodhounds going with upgrades, although "the returns are not worth it".

Meanwhile Air Cdre. Day revealed that not only had successive Governments' pennypinching on our defences left our skies defenceless, they had also killed our airmen in the Gulf. He revealed that because the RAF lacked air-launched cruise missiles, our Tornados had no option but to fly into Iraqi flak to drop JP233 runway-busting bombs. Five of them did not come back. Victims of Tory and Labour meanness.

Meanness set to go on, behind the British peoples' back. On Government orders, the Civil Servants said as little as they could about the detailed RAF plans for "Options for Change". But it was revealed that we will be left even more defenceless. 15,000 RAF personnel will be thrown on the scrapheap and several squadrons of aircraft disbanded.

GROUNDING

In fact, the Russians know more about these cuts than we do. An official Conventional Forces in Europe document passed to Moscow informed the Soviets that 28 RAF Phantoms are to be grounded. But the bureaucrats were ordered to refuse to confirm this to British MP's. As an incredulous Mr. Michael Mates, the Commons Committee chairman, asked them "You mean you will tell the Russians, but you will not tell the British public?"

British-Made Weapons for Britain's Army

THE BRITISH Challenger tank proved its worth in the Gulf War, performing magnificently in the desert battlefields. As a result, the Government has been forced to abandon plans to equip our Army with an American main battle tank, the General Dynamics M1-A2. Instead it seems certain that Vickers will now get the contract to provide our troops with their new Challenger Mark 2. Thus saving hundreds of jobs in Leeds and on Tyneside and ensuring that we keep our tank-building industry.

It shows our designers, craftsman and workers can still beat the world. If they are only given a chance. But it shouldn't have had to take a war to make a British Government equip British soldiers with British weapons.

MAKE IT A MONUMENT TO BE PROUD OF

A MOST appalling eyesore is to be erected on the White Cliffs of Dover. A monstrosity that the British people are being asked to help finance which it is claimed will be a monument to commemorate the Battle of Britain and The Few who flew in it.

The FLAG fully supports the idea of a monument on the cliffs so that in the years to come the British people will remember the efforts of the RAF in the 1939-45 war. But let the Spitfire and Hurricane pilots be remembered by something of their time, not a revolting modern art offering that would look more at home on a wind farm.

What about a Spitfire in bronze?

Market Madness To Cap It All!

AMONG ALL THE bureaucratic, waste and muddle which makes up the Common Market the "Common Agricultural Policy" must cap it all. This year's CAP budget is £23 billion. £64 million a day. Of the £5 billion of British taxpayers' money drained away by the Brussels bureaucrats every year, £3.5 billion disappears into the bottomless pit of CAP. Of which Britain pays £13 million every day.

This money is supposed to help our farmers. But in fact little of it ever gets to Britain's struggling farms. Which are going broke in droves as the Tory recession bites ever deeper. Even though British farms are acknowledged to be the most efficient in Europe. Instead it lines the pockets of French, Italian, Spanish, Portuguese, Irish and Greek peasants. Buying their inefficiently-grown produce at inflated prices. Under EEC rules, Brussels must buy everything they grow, whether or not anyone wants it. Paid for by us, the British taxpayer.

FOOD MOUNTAINS

Thereby funding the notorious, vast, and ever-growing EEC food mountains. Today these are at their biggest ever. Three-quarters of a million tons of beef, 600,000 tons of dairy produce, and 20 million tons of grain are sitting in warehouses across Western Europe. All of it bought by the EEC at our expense. Eventually these mountains either rot or are dumped on world markets at a fraction of what the Eurocrats paid for them. Paid with our money. Money you pay in VAT on nearly everything you buy.

The EEC's Irish Republican Farm Commissioner, Ray MacSharry, wants to spend even more of our money on buying food no-one can sell economically from primitive peasants, notably in his home country, by switching EEC money to them, away from efficient British, Danish and German farmers who will be ruined to subsidise the Irish and the Southern Europeans.

Meanwhile any attempt to scrap the whole fiddle is stymied by desperate efforts to revive the internationalist General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, which collapsed in bickering a few months ago.

SURPLUS PRODUCTION

As leading agricultural expert Anthony Rosen recently asked "How can anyone justify the EEC selling butter on world markets at around £500 a ton when the EEC pays farmers nearly £2,500 a ton for it?"

Mr. Rosen went on "How can anyone justify the absurd position where taxpayers are paying £13 million every day, knowing that the major part is going to buy up surplus production, store it and subsidise its dumping on to world markets, destroying the farming economies of other nations?"

How indeed? But then the Common Market is a theatre of the absurd in the first place. The CAP is just one of the numerous farces which play there every day. At our expense. It's time to walk out of the performance, if we can't close down the show. Before it ruins us all...

ACTION

North-West!

ON SATURDAY 13th April eight members of Bolton & Wigan National Front took to the streets of Nelson, Lancashire for a morning paper-selling session.

After North-West Regional Organiser David Sudworth told the local police of the Front's intentions the work began. In just over an hour those NF members present sold over 30 copies of The FLAG and TRUE BRIT to local people many of whom stopped for a chat and to tell the sellers many of the problems they faced living in the very heart of Britain's multi-racial nightmare.

• BELOW: "I never knew there was so much in it!". A PC enjoys reading 'The FLAG' in Colne.

• PUBLIC'S VIEW: NF sellers hear what it is like to live in the heart of Britain's multi-racial nightmare.

At 11 O'Clock the sellers moved into the neighbouring town of Colne where after lengthy negotiations between David Sudworth and Superintendent Rawcliffe in Colne Police Station the NF were given the go-head to get on and sell their papers. Another 15 papers were sold in just 35 minutes and over 200 leaflets handed out.

In the afternoon, even though the NF numbers were down to just 5, they moved to the main local town of the area, Burnley, where 500 leaflets were given out. The day ended with a small social in a local hotel.

On Saturday 20th April, ten NF members and supporters held a paper sale in Wigan town centre where in two hours 27 papers were sold and 1,000 leaflets given out much to the disapproval of local Labour Party activists trying to sell Militant and Socialist Worker and who only managed to sell one paper all morning. The day was rounded off with an excellent trip to Blackpool for an afternoon and evening taking in the sights!

IAN ANDERSON was the guest speaker at the May Meeting of Wigan National Front which took place on Saturday May 18th. Ian told The FLAG that the NF revival in the North-West was continuing apace with activities planned for Manchester in the near future that should rebuild the Branch there.

Rule Britannia Already

I SEE THAT the British forces who were sent to the Gulf, to defend whatever it was they were defending, are on their way back and loading their equipment on to foreign ships for the journey.

In fact if it had not been for the foreign ships they would not have needed to load up the return journey for if they had had to rely on what is left of the British merchant fleet they wouldn't even have arrived yet.

When British troops were engaged in a NATO exercise in Norway a year or two ago, the Ministry of Defence had to hire Scandinavian ferries to take them there. Still, I suppose that as long as the troops got their duty-frees nobody minded too much.

Once we had the largest merchant fleet in the world. Now it is virtually non-existent. Once we were the world's biggest shipbuilders. Now we don't rank in the top ten and lag a long way behind small countries such as Holland and Norway; even the shipyards we have left being mainly foreign-owned.

Such is the parlous condition of the once-great British merchant marine. However, this lack of profitability in British shipping may not last much longer if Sir Jeffrey Sterling has his way.

Sir Jeffrey Sterling - isn't that fine old British name enough to shiver your timbers. Why, one can almost taste the tang of the salt wind. It is redolent of the crack of the canvas, of yo-ho-ho and a bottle of rum, of shanties and pigtailed and black shag and tarred rope, isn't it?

Well, actually no.

In fact Sir Jeffrey, despite his grand-sounding British name, was one of Madam Thatcher's legion of Jewish friends and confidants. Since 1983 he has been Special Adviser to the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry and as such must surely know the answer to Britain's economic ills. Add to this the fact that he is also President of the General Council of British Shipping and he obviously is determined to maintain our ancient maritime traditions.

He is also Chairman of the P & O shipping company. It was in this capacity that he had recently enunciated the answer to his company's financial problems. It was a truly Thatcherite solution. If the Government will not grant him tax concessions, warns Sir Jeffrey, he will remove his ships from British jurisdiction and register them in the Caribbean flag of convenience zone.

It is all a matter of cash you see and, in the very best Thatcherite tradition, Sir Jeffrey has, like most British ship owners, been replacing British crewmen and replacing them with cut-rate Asians. This is not to suggest that Sir Jeffrey is not patriotic (how could one of Madam Thatcher's knights be anything else?) but it is once more simply a case of business is business my boy. All in all, the business is business my boy brigade have given the British shipping industry the business in no uncertain manner.

Perhaps Sir Jeffrey, who is, after all, a Government Special Adviser and a leader of the shipping industry, may yet revive our merchant fleet. Perhaps he can inspire it in the way that Nelson inspired the Royal Navy. He might, perhaps, fly Nelson's famous signal from the masts of all P & O ships (suitably amended for their new status and new type of crewmen). How about "Panama expects every lascar will do his duty..."

The Enemy Within

IT MUST be nice to be a lord. Pleasant to be above the common herd and to be able to adopt that urbane, detached sort of view that makes you so superior to the rabble who are your fellow countrymen.

Robert Cecil is one of those chaps. He is now Lord Cranborne and he was formerly the Tory M.P. for Dorset South. He went to Eton of course - you know, that place on whose playing fields the battle of Waterloo was won - and he is terribly, terribly right wing and frightfully superior.

You see he has this lofty view about immigration. While you and I worry about the way the very nature of our nation is being corrupted by immigration, chaps like Lord Cranborne are able to relax on their estates, far from the madding crowd, and take a more relaxed and broader view than the common folk who have to live with the consequences in Brixton or Southall or Birmingham or any of the other alien infestations.

The Ted Budden Column

His comments and observations do not necessarily reflect NF Policy.

Milord freely admits that we can have too many immigrants but he points out the benefits that, for instance, the French Protestant Huguenots brought to this country. He also cites East European Jews and Ugandan Asians as examples of how immigrants have enriched our nation. Of course one needs to be a thoroughly detached and urbane sort of chap not to notice the difference between a French Huguenot and a Ugandan Asian - a lordly sort, in fact.

He believes that we need young and ambitious immigrants and praises the contribution that "Chinese and Vietnamese immigrants are making to the technical and academic life of the United States". We could, he says, use people like that in Europe.

He declares Jean-Marie Le Pen to be "a political thug who has dragged immigration politics into the gutter". He would no doubt say the same about the National Front if it were not for the fact that soiling his lips with the very name would confer undue importance upon us.

Viscount Cranborne sits in the House of Lords, not because his views are worth anything but because of his dubious lordly birth. He has his articles published in the frightfully right-wing Daily Telegraph for the same reason. You and I, on the other hand, have great difficulty in making our protests heard while he advocates giving our homeland to aliens.

Don't you just wish that Oliver Cromwell's revolution had been more like the French Revolution? Oh what sweet music it would be if the sound of the tumbler were heard in our land!

Charity Begins Abroad

I WAS interested to read that executives of large companies last year awarded themselves pay rises averaging 22% - this at a time when the country was supposed to be in the grip of recession; when company profits were falling, and the rest of the workers were being lectured on the virtues of pay restraint. It is amazing how, when hundreds of thousands of people are losing their jobs and the country is in yet another of its constantly recurring economic crises, about 2% of the population still contrive to live like kings. It really seems as though they have no knowledge of how the other 98% lives - or that they care if they don't.

This was brought home to me just recently when the Princess Royal launched a campaign to raise money for the Save the Children Fund. Princess Anne is, of course, well known as a major sponsor of this charity and I'm sure we all appreciate the absolute necessity of financing the proliferation of the children of the coloured races in order that they, in their turn, may have the opportunity of breeding yet more children for us to subsidise.

What I found particularly interesting was the slogan on the badge that she wore on this occasion - it read "Skip lunch. Save a life." To ram home this point, the Princess and the rest of the well-heeled throng declined the sumptuous lunch laid on as a mark of their conscientious commitment - the food, no doubt, being later thrown into the pig bin to save the lives of a fair number of pigs.

The message that accompanied this demo was this; if instead of eating an average business lunch for two; the cost, £50, should be given to the Save the Children Fund by hard-pressed executives.

What a good idea! The problem is that people in this country are said to be suffering from compassion fatigue. It is alleged that they have contributed so much to overseas charities in response to impassioned appeals from the rich and famous and the hysteria whipped up by those charity pop concerts where full-time practising degenerates show how decent they really are, that they are now drained - or, to put it another way, the novelty has worn off.

The novelty wore off, as far as British charities are concerned, quite a long time ago. Charities that cater for the needy and the handicapped in Britain have suffered grievously from the loss of funds gobbled up by trendy overseas charities but are loth to complain for fear of being thought ungenerous or (perish the thought) "racist".

One other small matter; no doubt like me you have seen elderly people at the supermarket buying two slices of luncheon meat or one slice of corned beef. You may have seen them picking up items, reading the price, and putting them down again. You may have noticed a hint of despair in their faces.

It just so happens that the cost of the average business lunch for two that Princess Anne wants donated to the Save the Children Fund - a mere £50 - is almost exactly what is deemed sufficient for a British old age pensioner to buy all the necessities of life for a whole week.

Perhaps Princess Anne will organise a charity on their behalf - but then again perhaps not.

Death and Democracy

THE ASSASSINATION of Rajiv Gandhi has, of course, elicited the predictable spate of pious humbug from the mealy-mouthed trashbags who purport to speak on behalf of our nation. They have all expressed their grief and their fears for "the future of democracy" in India" when, in fact, the survival of even the travesty of democracy that exists in India is a near miracle.

As for Rajiv Gandhi; the notion that he was some sort of representative of democracy is a hoot. He was the leader of the Congress Party because his mother had been its leader and she because her father had been. They were a Brahmin dynasty; a substitute for the rajahs and princes whose power they had destroyed.

Democracy was invented by the Ancient Greeks, most of whom were slave owners. It was a system of the Greeks, by the Greeks, and for the Greeks - the slaves, not being Greeks, didn't get a look in.

For democracy can only survive within a homogeneous nation since it depends for its existence on mutual respect, mutual tolerance, common loyalties, and a sense of common purpose. It cannot survive in multi-racial societies such as India, or the USSR or, as Americans will discover in the not too distant future, in the USA.

Rajiv Gandhi did not impose the alien concept of democracy on India - we did. It was not his fault that inherited a multi-racial state that made democracy unworkable. He did not deserve to be assassinated.

No Opinion on Legal Outcome

AN ARTICLE headed "The Battle for Free Speech" which appeared in the April issue of your paper contained a statement that "The Library Association... told Ron Cartledge that if the National Front took Walsall Council to court for the 'unlawful banning of NF publications' they would have a very good chance of winning."

The Library Association has done no such thing and I am not aware of any legal opinion in those terms. The Public Libraries and Museums Act 1964 requires local authorities to maintain a "comprehensive and efficient" library service. That does not of course mean that public libraries are obliged to stock every publication and it is a matter for professional judgement where the line is to be drawn. The general law on local government does place restrictions on local authorities with regard to actions which are based on political considerations. This law is the result of cases decided in the courts and there is no certainty as to what decision a court would reach if a case like that which has had publicity in your paper were to be heard.

We Must Expose the Lying Politicians

IN A recent Guardian edition it was said that the black population of Birmingham is 25% and not 15% as per your April headline. The Guardian also claims, along with the BBC that Britain's non-white population total is now 10% as against the official government figure of 4.5%.

It is surely the job of the National Front to use these figures to show the British people that our rulers are lying to us about every aspect of race and immigration.

We must expose Major, Kinnock and Ashdown as the democratically bankrupt traitors that they are, and that by controlling the media they can get away with any amount of disinformation. They no longer have to say plausible lies, such is the lack of free speech in this country, any interviewer who pointed out the discrepancy in the above statistics would immediately lose his job. (The BBC makes sure they get the "right" staff by advertising vacancies almost exclusively in the Guardian).

Democracy means government by the majority, and of course our leaders demand democracy in South Africa. It is just in Britain where the majority must be lied to, cheated and deprived of our birthright.

Mr. J. Davies,

Main Tory Policy is Hope!

I RECENTLY encountered a Tory candidate, touting for votes at the recent local elections. All beams and bonhomie she was, until I asked her a simple question.

"What will the Tories do to stop the remorseless Asianation of the town (Dewsbury)?"

Consternation! Mutterings about democracy and immigrants having been granted British nationality on the break-up of the empire... Human rights, and similar bilge.

Me: "In other words, you don't propose to do anything?"

She: "There isn't much that can be done. In a democracy like ours..."

Me: "And what's going to happen when the invaders have multiplied until we are a minority in our own land?"

She: "Let's hope it won't come to that."

The joke was that she and her accompanying aide agreed with everything I had to say, but doesn't this account just about sum up the ineptitude of our present generation of politicians? They know things have gone sadly awry but lack both the courage and the ability to put them to rights.

As I pointed out to the earnest lady, politicians got our land into this mess and it's up to them to get us out of it. But if 'hope' is the extent of Tory policy to counter the alien invasion of Britain, God help us all. More, God help our future generations.

May I commend my line of response to any NF members who have the good fortune to meet hopeful candidates from the so-called main parties? As we have so often said, the logic of our beliefs on racial issues cannot be refuted. Perhaps by this sort of discussion we can make others see the light.

Michael Hebden,
Dewsbury.

The Next Plane out of Heathrow

IS IT possible for one man to stir up feelings of hatred throughout the immigrant population of Britain. Yes it is if your name is Al Sharpton. How this man was ever allowed into this country beats me.

Just a few weeks ago I was fined the sum of £235 for using the words "Britain for the British" whilst on a National Front paper sale. While in court the prosecution accused me of stirring up racial hatred and called me a racist bigot.

Surely fat Al is doing just this. If this government had any sense they would put this troublemaker on the next plane out of Heathrow!

When a National Front government is formed then let's see Al Sharpton try and come here!

Get it Right!

I WOULD just like to point out an error in last month's Sport's page.

The headline read, "England does it Again" regarding the victory of Ian Woosnam in the US Masters. It may have escaped The FLAG's notice but won't have escaped the notice of patriotic Welsh readers that Woosnam is in fact a Welshman!

Similarly the winner of the Masters in 1988 was Sandy Lyle a Scot. With Nick Faldo winning for England in 1989 and 1990, would it not have been better to head the story "Britain does it again".

Who Are These People?

THERE IS an increasing tendency, today, for our overlords to tell us what is correct English. Why, 30 years ago you could call a spade a spade, without having some member of the CRE mafia crying "FOUL!"

Who is on this committee which sits in higher authority over us? Who are they and what are their names.

What right do these people have in telling 60 million 'others' how they should speak and think?

Name the names, or I will still speak of "spokesmen", "half-castes" and "negroes", instead of "spokesperson", "mixed-race" and "Afro-Caribbean", until my dying day.

Presentable and Well-Mannered

WHILE I am not a member of the National Front, and in some respects am not in entire agreement with its policies, I was prompted to write to The FLAG by the sudden appearance of sellers in my street.

What struck me was the marked contrast between these sellers and the usual gaggle of dubious types selling Socialist Worker, Marxism

Today and other such discredited but still all-pervading socialist propaganda. Instead of heckling passers-by through megaphones and obstructing the way of those who simply wish to pass and mind their own business, your presentable and well-mannered people stood politely to one side and made no attempt to impose themselves on anyone walking by.

Having spent some time in the Eastern Bloc and seen first hand the ruinous results of communist policies, I am quite often tempted to challenge the trendy lefties on points of their ideology, but am always discouraged by the pat clichés which roll off their tongue without, it is clear, having passed through their brains on the way.

When I joined in discussion with your people, however, their frankness and honest belief in what they were saying was like a breath of fresh air.

D. Simpson,
London SE13.

AN OPEN LETTER TO:

Stuart Brailey, Secretary, Exeter City Football Club, from Mrs Susan Lesman Secretary, Exeter National Front.

• FIRST DIVISION PAPERSELLERS: On duty at St James's Park, The Exeter NF paperselling team that so upset Mr Brailey!

Dear Mr Stuart Brailey,
I AM WRITING on behalf of the Membership & Committee of Exeter National Front, regarding an article which was printed in the Soccer Diary section of The Guardian newspaper on the 6th April 1991. This article contained quotes from you using obscene language.

Had this outburst occurred on the terraces of St. James Park you would have been, quite rightly in our opinion, ejected from the ground and could even have faced prosecution. It would seem you have a narrow minded, censorial and self-righteous attitude towards democracy. You admit you are not happy about a legally formed, democratic political movement selling newspapers in the proximity of, (please note not inside), St. James Park. Our paper sellers are law-abiding patriotic British citizens who take offence at being called s---t and scum by someone of your "supposedly" responsible position within a football club.

Our paper sellers are around St. James Park to try and sell copies of The FLAG newspaper and have never caused any trouble either inside or out of the ground. Indeed we number amongst our members some of the club's strongest and most loyal supporters. They are polite to the general public attending the matches which is more than can be said for some "football supporters" and club officials alike!

We shall continue to sell The FLAG at St. James with or without your consent as we are HERE is the latest league table: 1, Leeds; 2, Exeter; 3, West Ham; 4, Birmingham City; 5, Chelsea; 6, Crystal Palace; 7, Bristol City; 8, Wigan; 9, Newcastle.

You might think that any table in which Exeter find themselves second only to Leeds would be of immense satisfaction to the little west country club. But this is one success the Grecians could do without.

The list comprises the best League grounds for selling the National Front magazine The FLAG. "They tried to sell them inside the ground and we stopped them," said the Exeter secretary Stuart Brailey. "We then alerted the police. These people are shit and trash as far as we are concerned."

However, The FLAG can be sold in the streets outside the ground. "There is nothing we can do about it," said Inspector Steve McClelland of Exeter police. "We don't allow them to stand by the turnstiles, but the people who sell them know the rules of the game."

The Front's view is that: "We sometimes get criticised for selling our papers at football grounds, but where else do you get anything up to 30,000 people all walking past the same spot within about 60 minutes? It's also handy for our paper sellers, who usually pack up five minutes before the game starts and go in to support their favourite team."

• FROM THE GUARDIAN: You would have thought that the paper would have censored the swearing.

quite within the law to do so. At least in our paper you have the right of reply. I enclose a copy of The FLAG which I hope you enjoy.

It's Just Not Cricket

THE TEST and County Cricket Board have voted by 13 votes to six to introduce coloured clothing for Sunday games next season.

How on earth can they allow such vulgar razzmatazz to discredit our national game. It is Sunday cricket that has damaged the performance the our Test team and unless the number of one-day cricket matches is reduced dramatically, the future of 4 day cricket matches could be in doubt.

One day knock-out competitions are exciting but they should work as a supplement to cricket, not as its replacement.

The Power of the Spoken Word!

FLOODLIGHT FAILURE, riots, pitch invasions and disasters such as Hillsborough and Heysel have all been known to cause referees to stop football matches, but at a recent match between Middlesbrough and Brighton the referee threatened to stop the match because of racial chants.

Brighton's West Indian striker Small was involved in a nasty incident which led to a Middlesbrough player being carried off. Those blunt North-Easterners on the wind-swept Ayresome Park terraces let Small know in no uncertain terms what they thought of him.

Now following the latest Government guidelines on racial abuse the referee asked that it be broadcast over the tannoy at half time that unless the chanting stopped the game would be abandoned. Who would have thought have thought that two little words like "Black Bastard" could wield such power?

FLAG'S MAN

THE FLAG'S adopted fighter Adam Fogerty made it 19 wins out of 20 when he demolished American Tracy Thomas in two minutes 36 seconds of the third round at the Royal Albert Hall on May 8th.

The 22 year-old Halifax heavyweight completely outclassed his Detroit opponent and his impressive victory is another stride along the road to a crack at British title and the return of a truly British Heavyweight champion.

Brady in America

STEVE BRADY, Deputy-Chairman of the National Front and Editor of the quarterly Vanguard, recently paid a short visit to the United States. With him was leading NF South-West England activist Mark Cotterill.

During his visit, Steve was shown round Washington D.C. and Northern Virginia by local Nationalists. A number of whom he met for discussions on promoting our common struggle for racial survival. He also addressed a meeting in Alexandria, Virginia, on the outskirts of the American capital, attended by some thirty local patriots. Steve and Mark were made most welcome and shown splendid hospitality by their American hosts.

Both the NF representatives and their American colleagues professed the visit a success, sowing the seeds for enhanced trans-Atlantic contacts and possible speaking tours of North America by leading NF officials in the not-too-distant future. A detailed report of Steve's transatlantic impressions will feature in a forthcoming issue of Vanguard.
